Numerical weather prediction (NWP) uses mathematical models of the atmosphere and oceans to predict the weather based on current weather conditions. Though first attempted in the 1920s, it was not until the advent of computer simulation in the 1950s that numerical weather predictions produced realistic results. A number of global and regional forecast models are run in different countries ...

Compartmental models are a technique used to simplify the mathematical modelling of infectious disease. The population is divided into compartments, with the assumption that every individual in the same compartment has the same characteristics.

Lagrangian ocean analysis is a powerful way to analyse the output of ocean circulation models. We present a review of the Kinematic framework, available tools, and applications of Lagrangian ocean analysis.

Lagrangian ocean analysis: Fundamentals and practices

Box and Cox (1964) developed the transformation. Estimation of any Box-Cox parameters is by maximum likelihood. Box and Cox (1964) offered an example in which the data had the form of survival times but the underlying biological structure was of hazard rates, and the transformation identified this.

Biology is the study of life, past and present. The faculty of the College believe that a sound knowledge of biology is essential for understanding the world in which we live, engaging many pressing problems facing humanity, and becoming a part of their eventual solution. The Biological Sciences ...

They used model results, those are worthless, because the fundamental understanding of whatâ€™s really happening is being ignored. Water vapor, because it is limited based on temp and pressure, regulates daily min temp.

Given the same amount of absorbed solar energy coming in, the amount of IR escaping to space at the top of the atmosphere will indeed be the same no matter how many greenhouse gases there are (assuming the system is in equilibrium).
